INTRODUCTION

DESCRIPTION AND OPERATION

1. GENERAL

The Maintenance Manual has been written taking as a basis the requirements of the Air Transport Association (ATA 100) Specification, at issue, dated March 1st, 1986, Rev. No. 25 that applies to the technical publications from manufacturers.

The purpose of this manual is to give instructions to maintenance personnel in charge of the servicing and maintenance of the aircraft. It provides enough information to enable a mechanic to ensure routine servicing, inspections and trouble shooting and to complete the removal, installation and replacement of some equipment which require particular practices as well as the repair of some systems.

The information not contained in this manual may be found in the aircraft Illustrated Parts Catalog.

For the maintenance of the equipment and systems not covered in this manual, reference shall be made to publications listed in this chapter.

2. CUSTOMIZATION

A serial number is allocated to each aircraft. The serial numbers are allocated consecutively as aircraft are manufactured and retained throughout the aircraft service life. The serial number appears on the aircraft identification plate.

The configuration of each aircraft is customized.

A validity is allocated to each page, paragraph or step of the manual according to relevant aircraft.

Validity examples :

"S / N 1 - 9999" : for all aircraft

"Std" : for standard definition, when an option is available instead

■ "OPT" : when the subject dealt with is an option

"Option name" : for aircraft equipped with this option

■ "Pre-/Post-MODXXX"*

"S/N XX-YY, Pre-/Post-Kit OPT10 XXX-XX/SB10-XXX-XX"

■ "S/N XX-YY, Post-MODXXX"*

(*) refer to index of SOCATA modifications, Chapter 05-00-11.

NOTE : The list of the modifications and options, applied on each aircraft at the factory, is recorded in the I.I.R. (Individual Inspection Record). The list of the modifications and options applied as a retrofit during aircraft life is recorded in the aircraft logbook.

3. HOW TO USE THIS MANUAL

A. Breakdown

The maintenance manual is broken down into chapters (systems), sections (sub-systems) and subjects (equipment).

C. Numbering system

The numbering used in the aircraft maintenance manual consists in allocating a number made up of three sets of digits that are hyphenated and followed with page number and issue date.

- When the set for System (chapter) is suffixed with zeros (28-00-00 for instance), data apply to the whole system.
- When the set for Sub-system (section) is suffixed with zeros (28-40-00 for instance), data apply to the whole sub-system.
- The set for Equipment (subject) identifies the data applicable to the equipment that form part of the sub-systems. This set for Equipment (subject) is incremented from - 01 - according to the number of equipment in the sub-system for which maintenance instructions are necessary.
- The maintenance data within all divisions System / Sub-system / Equipment (chapter / section / subject) are split into specific data types identifiable by the page numbers in numerical order.

Pages 1 to 99 - Description and operation

Pages 101 to 199 - Trouble shooting

Pages 201 to 299 - Maintenance practices

These pages (201 to 299) contain the following subjects :

- . Servicing,
- . Removal / installation,
- . Adjustment / test,
- . Inspection / check,
- . Cleaning / paint,
- . Repairs.

NOTE : Voluminous subjects are treated separately ; in that case, the page numbers are as follows :

Pages 301 to 399 - Servicing

Pages 401 to 499 – Removal / Installation

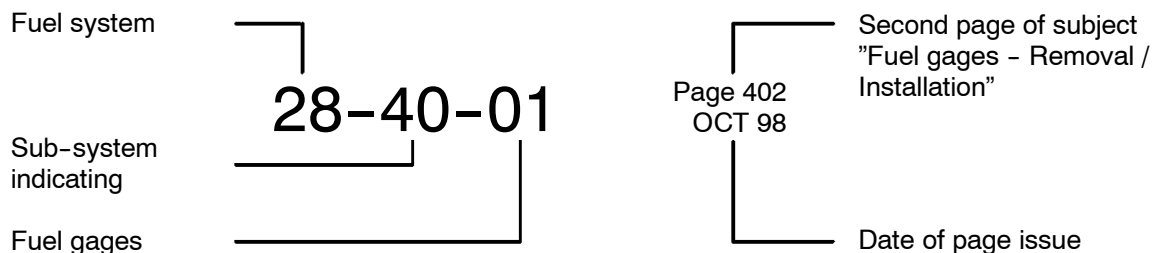

Pages 501 to 599 – Adjustment / Test

Pages 601 to 699 – Inspection / Check

Pages 701 to 799 – Cleaning / Paint

Pages 801 to 899 – Repairs

Illustrations are numbered in the same manner within the number-sequences of the pages to which they pertain ; Figure 402, for instance, is the second figure of paragraph "Removal / Installation".

When a practice repeats information already written elsewhere in the manual, the information is not duplicated. The text only mentions the information or the practice to be carried out and refers to the chapters and sections concerned.

Example : Drain fuel – refer to 12-10-01.

Codes on the left bottom of the page and at the right of the chapter/section/subject number are intended for internal document management.

4. LIST OF EFFECTIVE PAGES

Each chapter of the maintenance manual incorporates a front page that lists all effective pages (LEP). All pages of the relevant chapter are listed in numerical order with a mention of the issue date for each page.

All the LEP in the manual are grouped in the LEP index (LEPI)

5. UPDATING

A. List of revised pages (LRP)

This list, issued at each revision, provides the whole of revised, new or deleted pages.

B. List of effective pages index (LEPI)

This index, issued at each revision, gives the LEP date in force of all the chapters in the manual.

It allows to check that all the LEP inserted in the manual are at the latest revision.

C. List of service bulletins (LSB) and service letters

SOCATA service bulletins and service letters are available for consultation on SOCATA website.

D. List of SOCATA technical instructions

The list of technical instructions is available for consultation on SOCATA website.

E. List of airworthiness directives

Aircraft, engine, propeller and equipment airworthiness directives are available for consultation on EASA and FAA websites.

F. List of revision recording (LRR)

This list indicates the successive evolutions of the manual.

LRR updating is user's responsibility and should be done as soon as a new revision is issued.

G. List of effective temporary revisions (LETR)

Temporary revisions are issued on yellow pages.

These pages shall be inserted into the manual as a complement to the existing white pages.

The interim yellow pages bear the same numbers as their white counterparts but with a later issue date.

The modified white pages are kept in the manual, however the information in the yellow pages supersedes the information in the existing white pages.

Temporary revisions should be recorded on the temporary revision table.

The appropriate white pages are replaced and the yellow pages are withdrawn at the time of the regular updating.

NOTE : If a regular revision bears an issue date anterior to the issue date of the yellow pages inserted in the manual, these yellow pages remain valid until the next regular revision.

H. Identification of revisions

Additions, modifications or deletions to the existing text are indicated with a black vertical line in the page left margin, over against the affected text.

Vertical lines of earlier revisions are deleted on the reissued page.

When technical modifications require text left intact to be transferred onto one or several different page(s), a black vertical line appears in the left margin of the page(s) concerned, over against the chapter / section / subject number, the page number and the issue date provided that a black vertical line appears nowhere on the same page(s). These pages are inscribed with the issue date of the revision to be incorporated.

When major technical modifications cause significant modifications to the existing text, a black vertical line appears over the full text length.

If an existing illustration is modified, the modification is indicated with a black vertical line in the left margin over against the modified area.

6. WARNING, CAUTION AND NOTE

The text in this manual sometimes includes "WARNING", "CAUTION" and "NOTE" mentions associated with the practices to be performed.

These additional mentions aim at highlighting or emphasizing important points.

Basically, "WARNING" and "CAUTION" precede the concerned paragraph or procedure whereas "NOTE" follows the related paragraph.

WARNING : DRAWS THE ATTENTION TO POINTS TO BE STRICTLY OBSERVED AND ADDRESSES THE USE OF PRODUCTS, PROCESSES, METHODS, PRACTICES OR LIMITATIONS TO AVOID RISKS OF PERSONAL INJURY OR LOSS OF LIFE.

CAUTION : DRAWS THE ATTENTION TO METHODS AND PRACTICES TO BE OBSERVED TO AVOID DAMAGE TO EQUIPMENT.

NOTE : Draws the attention to methods for the ease of work.

7. TIGHTENING TORQUES

For tightening torques, no values are given in the text and they shall be applied in accordance with chapters 20-00-01 and 20-00-02.
